John C. Hull Tells Of Country News Items Early 1900's

REMEMBER BACK THERE when we had our weekly papers here and they were full of country correspondence?

I looked back through the issues of the Saline County Register of approximately 50 years ago yesterday after I had a talk with John C. Hull of Garden Heights, and there I saw items from all around, practically filling a page.

Reason I mention Mr. Hull is that he is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, living writer of country correspondence items in the county, from the point of when he started doing it.

Mr. Hull started back in 1891, writing for the early weeklies, and wrote for years. He even sent back items from Piggott, Ark., when he went down there in 1902 to work. He came back in 1906 and resumed writing here.

Mr. Hull, 80 years old and real active, lives beside his son, Silas, in Garden Heights. His first wife died in 1937, his second four years ago. He lives in a house he built back in 1914, when there were only two other houses around. In this county he has farmed, worked on the railroad and in the coal mines, retiring from work when Sahara 12 at Muddy ceased operations.

"I knew I was too old to get another mining job; so I retired," he stated.

He said that during his early days he had written correspondence from Equality, Eagle Creek and Kedron, and possibly from another place or two.

"Back in those early days we were always trying to catch a good one on somebody and put it in the paper," he said. He mentioned that sometimes the consequences weren't so good on the writer for being "cute" but that the practice prevailed all over.

"Once," he said, "my sister got bit by one of the hound dogs in the family. The bite didn't amount to anything, but when I turned in my correspondence I told about how she was gradually showing improvement and it sure did make her mad at me."

I looked back through the files of some of the Saline County Registers shortly after the turn of the century and learned that "cute" items were used extensively.

Here are a couple of items from 11 Marines Drown in Sea

Caught Up By Freak Currents While Swimming

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — Eleven U. S. Marines who went swimming in apparently calm water were drowned Wednesday when caught up by freak ocean currents, Marine headquarters announced today.

Twelve other Marines were saved when other men in the area came to their rescue.

The Marines, who had engaged in field problems throughout the day, entered the water to cool off. They had been given instructions a few moments before by their company commander on safety precautions.

But a freak current hit them and swept them out to sea.

It was the second tragic incident in six months involving the Marine Corps. Last April 8, six Marines were drowned at Parris Island, S. C., when Staff Sgt. Matthew McKeon, an instructor, led a detachment into tidal waters on a night march which he ordered as a disciplinary measure. McKeon later was court-martialed and sentenced to nine months' imprisonment and a bad conduct discharge from the corps.

Brig. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, commanding general of the 3rd Marine Division, ordered an extensive search for the missing men.

Carpentier Questions Validity of Paschen Withdrawal as Candidate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Candidates of Democrat Richard B. Austin for governor and Republican Elbert Smith for state auditor have been formally approved by the State Electoral Board.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier, however, raised a question of validity in the withdrawal of Democrat Herbert C. Paschen for governor.

Carpentier apparently didn't expect Paschen's withdrawal to be refused by the board, since the ballot which the board certifies bore Austin's name in print under the section for the Democratic candidate for governor.

Carpentier said there were "no parallels" in the case of Paschen, who withdrew in the face of an investigation into an employees' welfare fund in his Cook County treasurer's office. The secretary added that he believed such cases created "dangers for our primary system... chances to frustrate our voters" in a primary.

Carpentier said he could visualize a case where there might be "collusion" among political leaders to run one man in a primary knowing in advance they would replace him later.

Gov. William G. Stratton, chairman of the all Republican board, abstained from discussing or voting on the matter of his opponent for the November election.

The withdrawal of Orville E. Hodge, now in prison for embezzlement of state funds, and his replacement by Smith, of Decatur, were accepted without question by the board.

land, sea and air search for the missing men.

All available Marine aircraft were sent into the air to search the sea within five miles of the shore. Foot patrols searched the shoreline and boats cruised offshore looking for victims.

"Before the men were waist deep in the water, they were in trouble," eyewitnesses said. "They were knocked from their feet by a vicious undercurrent and tumbled seaward."

Capt. Jack Westerman, commanding officer of Company F, 2nd Battalion, 9th Marines, immediately called off swimming activities and formed a human chain to aid bathers to reach the beach.

Members of the chain were unable to keep their footing due to the strength of the freak current.

Second Lt. John L. Shanahan, a skilled skin diver, heard of the trouble and raced to the beach at the north end of the island with a rubber raft. He moved it through the water and pulled Marines to the raft. The Marines, unable to swim against the heavy current, clung to the raft until a helicopter arrived and dropped a 100-foot line and towed the raft to safety.

American Education Week Proclaimed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday proclaimed the week beginning Nov. 11 as "American Education Week." He urged parents to visit schools during that period to exchange views with the teachers on educational problems.

Carpentier Questions Validity of Paschen Withdrawal as Candidate

The board also approves Smith's resignation as a candidate for reelection as state senator and his replacement by George P. Johns, Decatur Republican. Petitions of the Prohibition Party for a place on the ballot were rejected by the board, which certified a full slate of Social Labor Party candidates for state offices.

For the Democrats, meanwhile, Austin ripped into what he called "the lack of honesty, integrity and decency in the present administration" of Gov. William G. Stratton.

He said he would try to visit all 102 counties in the state during the next two months and would hit at the Hodge case, the toll road program and the controversial Dunbar-Nickell school food hauling contract as issues.

Stratton planned to start his campaign official next Monday with a caravan that will make its first stop at Jacksonville, then tour downstate until Oct. 15 before going into Cook County for the remainder of the campaign.

Traveling with Stratton will be Carpentier, Atty. Gen. Latham Castle, and Smith. U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen will head another caravan, and will be accompanied by Lt. Gov. John W. Chapman, Supreme Court Clerk Mrs. Fae I. Searcy and Elmer J. Hoffman, candidate for treasurer.

Richard Stengel, the Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, and Michael J. Howlett, Democratic candidate for auditor, are already touring downstate in sound-equipped station wagons.

2 Small Sisters Killed by Auto on Way to School

CHICAGO (AP) — A distraught teenager, whose speeding automobile killed two little sisters on the first day of school, was returned to a juvenile home today to await an inquest continued to Sept. 14.

Sandra Griffith, 5, and her sister, Jean, 7, were killed when struck Wednesday by the auto of Richard Dombek, 16, Evanston, Ill., who was driving his father's auto for the first time alone.

Dombek broke away from officers at a police station after the accident, banged his head against a wall, and shouted: "My God, what did I do now?"

The Griffith sisters were in a group of 25 children returning home from lunch when the accident occurred. Another youngster, 5-year old Linda Gustafson, suffered burns from boiling radiator water, but her condition was not serious.

Police said Dombek was traveling too fast when he turned a corner into the street of the school where the girls had just been dismissed for lunch. The car—out of control—leaped the curb, smashed into a light pole, struck an iron fence and then rammed into the group of youngsters.

Sandra had started kindergarten Wednesday while Jean was in the second grade.

Walter Bargman Funeral Friday

The funeral of Walter Bargman, 54, who died at noon Wednesday, will be held at the Gaskins funeral home Friday at 3 p. m. The Rev. H. H. Hunsman, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, Chester, of which Mr. Bargman was a member, will conduct the funeral service. Burial will be at Lindale Memorial Garden.

Mr. Bargman had served as Payroll Chairman of Saline County War Bond Sales since before World War II, and had received numerous citations for his work in behalf of the sale of war bonds. In the last month of his life he received a medal which was presented with bedside ceremonies, in recognition of his services.

He came to Harrisburg from Chester, the native home of his parents, Mrs. Catherine Bargman, now residing in San Francisco, Calif., and the late John Bargman. Two sisters, Mrs. Henry Judson, San Francisco, and Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Los Angeles, are known by numerous Harrisburg friends.

His wife is the former Orene Maddox and survives with two children, Mrs. Betty Patterson, Lakeland, Fla., and Mrs. Thela Patten, and three grandchildren. Mrs. Patten is teaching at Carmi this year.

He was a member of the Harrisburg Elks Lodge.

He was related to A. C. Cox of the Cox funeral home, Ridgway, from which his body was moved today to the Gaskins funeral home to remain until the hour of the funeral. The funeral will be conducted by the Cox funeral service.

Brother of Mrs. Ernest Booten Dies

Mrs. Ernest Booten of 218 South Granger was called to Mt. Carmel this morning by the death of her brother, Kenneth (Ted) Sperling, an employee of the New York Central railroad who moved to Mt. Carmel from Harrisburg about two years ago.

Mr. Sperling died at 9 a. m. today in Mt. Carmel following a long illness. The body will be returned to Harrisburg and further details will be announced later.

Harry Denny Named To Airport Authority

Harry Denny, well-known local resident, recently was appointed as a member of the Harrisburg-Raleigh Airport authority by Mayor Claud Gibbons.

The term is for five years. Mr. Denny replaced Dean Hill, whose term expired.

Attends Rally Here With Howlett, Gray And Other Candidates

"The issue in the coming election is just this simple—The Democratic party is the party of the public and the Republican party is the party of special interests," the large crowd in attendance at the Democratic rally at the court house in Harrisburg was told Wednesday evening.

Speaking at the rally were Richard Stengel, candidate for U. S. Senator; Mike Howlett, candidate for State Auditor; Congressman Kenneth Gray and Rep. Paul Powell, candidates for re-election.

Also introduced were the Saline County Democratic candidates — Robert Wilson for state's attorney, Jimmy Burroughs for circuit clerk and Jim Thornton for coroner.

Stengel charged the Republican administration has hand-tooled its policies for giantism in business and proposed a program to restore small business trade, competitive equality and employment.

"Small business," Stengel said, "has suffered drastic reverses under a Republican administration which has hand tooled its policies for giantism in business. What does the so called Republican prosperity really mean to Southern Illinois businessmen?"

Stengel then cited unemployment figures in many southern Illinois cities and stated that of the number of workers covered by unemployment insurance in southern Illinois more than 11 per cent were not employed as of the last date figures were available—July 14 of this year.

"That means fewer buyers and users of food, clothing, appliances, furniture, entertainment and various services. I've been told many times by merchants that their business has fallen off as much as one third in the past few years," Stengel stated.

Five-Point Program

The speaker then listed a five-point program to help small business and southern Illinois:

1. Enactment of legislation to provide for community, industrial and rural development loans and grants up to $250 million to revive industry and employment;

2. Require the Defense Department by law to allocate a percentage of its subcontracts in under-employment areas to factories capable of performing the work, reversing its present discriminatory practices;

3. Reopen Government programs of research, closed by the Republican administration, to develop fuels, dyes, chemicals and other product-users of coal and other natural resources;

4. Strengthen the farm program and underpin farm income with 90 per cent supports;

5. Enact the Fulbright bill providing tax relief for small business.

Howlett Urges Audits

The program, the Democratic candidate asserted, "would restore a sound prosperity to small business and eliminate the reactionary Republican discriminations to

Man Killed, Two Hurt in Auto Crash Near McLeansboro

MCLEANSBORO, Ill. (AP) — Harry Lee Flegel, 25, of LeRoy, Ill., was killed and two others were injured yesterday when two autos collided on U. S. Route 460 five miles west of here.

Coroner Elmo Gholson said that cars driven by Flegel and George Belva, 30, of McLeansboro figured in a sideswiping at Delafield curve.

Belva and Harry Swallows, 27, of LeRoy, a passenger in Flegel's car, were hospitalized here. They were reported in "fair" condition. Gholson said he learned Flegel and Swallows were returning home from a Florida vacation.

Harry Baldwin, 72, Eldorado Resident, Dies at Alton Hospital

He is survived by his wife, Mae; three daughters, Mrs. Lovelle Cox, Alton, Mrs. Clarence Heil, Alton, and Mrs. Elbert Harrison of Detroit, Mich.; also one brother, Ed Baldwin, Eldorado.

Several from Angry Mob of 750 Arrested

Tanks from Guard Unit Stationed at Each End of School

STURGIS, Ky. (AP) — National Guard troops with drawn bayonets pushed their way through an angry mob of 750 persons to escort 11 Negro pupils into Sturgis High School today. Officials termed the enforced integration situation explosive.

Several members of the crowd were arrested when they attempted to stop guardsmen from escorting the Negro children into the formerly all-white high school.

A few white persons also were knocked down in the melee as they lunged at the guardsmen.

Many of the white pupils at the small high school, who have continued to attend classes during the demonstrations earlier this week left the school after today's disturbance.

The Negro children filed inside the school and began registering for classes.

"Order is Being Kept"

The crowd showed no signs of dispersing and continued milling about the grounds, booing the guardsmen, stationed closely together around the building.

Tanks from the 240th Tank Unit were stationed at each end of the school. Kentucky Adj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams directed the operation. Several units of state police from nearby cities also helped keep order.

In a telephone message to Gov. A. B. Chandler at Frankfort, Williams reported "order is being kept" and no damage has been done.

He said the crowd has been brought under control with as many as 20 arrests by state police and guardsmen.

Troops and tanks of four state National Guard units moved in Wednesday night to put down any further demonstrations at the school.

One light and three medium tanks rumbled into town with more than 200 men. The troops bivouacked near the high school Wednesday night.

None Register

Nine Negroes appeared on the campus Tuesday but left quickly when they saw the unfriendly crowd. None attempted to register Wednesday.

It was reported that four of the students had registered at an all Negro school at Morganfield, the Union County seat, Tuesday.

Seven of the nine students who wanted to register at the white school were residents of Sturgis. The other two were transfers from Terre Haute, Ind.

Presence of the Indiana students caused some grumbling about outside interference, but Carlos Oakley, superintendent of Union County schools, denied that out-of-state agitators were trying to stir up trouble.

Leland Odle and Marion Pierce Hurt at Sahara 5

Leland Odle and Marion "Monk" Pierce, two local men, were injured about 9:30 last night in a rock fall while working at the face in Sahara 5 mine west of Harrisburg. They were taken to Harrisburg hospital but it was believed neither man was hurt seriously.

Reports were that Odle suffered cuts on the side of his face and that Pierce's injuries included shoulder bruises and abrasions.

Who Expected

Excitement?

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

In all the post-mortems over the two national conventions, the complaint that keeps cropping up is against their dullness.

But, in truth, that amounts to protesting that politicians insist on being politicians.

Some citizens may argue, with good point, that the conventions were not equally dull.

But the difference was simply one of degree.

Only Harry Truman's calculated capers and an unscheduled photo finish in the vice presidential contest lifted the Democratic affair above the dogged routine achieved by the Republicans.

The 1956 conventions were tedious for two reasons:

1. The basic drama infused by a real struggle for the presidential nomination was lacking in both cases.

2. Most politicians are inherently dull fellows on the public platform and they were operating according to form at Chicago and San Francisco.

Why the folks who concern themselves with covering conventions expected miracles of excitement in 1956 is difficult to fathom.

Once President Eisenhower let it be known he was running again the GOP convention had nothing to do but ratify his action. The sole question was whether his would be done by a huge shout or a roll call.

And since the delegates also overwhelmingly preferred Vice President Nixon for renomenation, Harold Stassen's belated effort to sidetrack him could not have injected any real suspense into the proceedings.

On the Democratic side, after early June all signs pointed to an early ballot nomination for Adlai Stevenson. Senator Kefauver's July withdrawal removed one of the key elements of possible conflict. Only Governor Harriman's forlorn candidacy was left.

In the face of these developments, the networks and news agencies determined to swarm over the convention sites in record numbers, as if they thought at least one of the parties might nominate Danny Kaye on the 45th ballot.

Admittedly, convention organizers confused them somewhat by promising "streamlined" conventions with stress on short speeches, fast pace, lots of eye-filling entertainment. But no one should have been misled.

Ten short speeches are not necessarily better than two long ones. A dull speaker reveals himself pretty quickly.

One might fairly say that it is virtually impossible to streamline a politician. Speech-making is his business, but in the nature of things all too few of his breed are good at it. Put him on a platform and he will not be too concerned with whether he's outdoing
"I Love Lucy" or not.

In a truly exciting struggle like the Eisenhower-Taft match of 1952, the dull grinding of the speech mills seems relatively painless. But in mild affairs like those of 1956 it all comes mercilessly to the fore.

Basically, conventions are not entertainment and politicians are not entertainers. Nor is television or anything else likely to change these facts in a short space of time.

Political drama isn't automatic.
You must take it where you find it.

Imagine what people would have said had the 1936 Democratic convention been televised. On that occasion President Roosevelt was renominated with the aid of 57 seconding speeches which consumed eight full hours. It's doubtful that lovers of drama would have been around at the finish.

JACK ANDERSON Says:
Scientists Warn Proposed
Plant May Endanger Public;
Suppressed Memo Challenges AEC Action.

WASHINGTON — In a memo suppressed by Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis Strauss, atomic scientists have warned sternly that the "fast breeder" power reactor he approved for construction outside Detroit may "risk the health and safety of the public."

Last November, a similar but smaller experimental reactor at Arco, Idaho, melted down into a hot radioactive heap that couldn't be touched for six months. Puzzled scientists still haven't found the cause.

Yet Strauss, ignoring the urgent advice of his own safety experts, okayed construction of the same design atomic power plant in Detroit's populous back yard. The 150,000-kilowatt plant will be built by the Power Reactor Development company which, like the Dixon-Yates combine, was formed by several private companies.

Though there isn't a secret in it, Strauss has guarded the embarassing memo as if it were a blueprint of the H-bomb. He carefully stamped it "top secret" before showing it, as required by law to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee. Chairman Clint Anderson (D., N. M.) angrily returned it with a demand that the security classification be removed. But Strauss agreed only to change the stamp from "top secret" to "administratively confidential."

QUOTES SECRET MEMO

Similarly, he has turned down a demand by Michigan's Governor Mennen "Soapy" Williams to make the document public. The government argued futilely that the proposed reactor might endanger citizens of his state.

Despite all Strauss's precautions, this column has obtained a copy of the hush-hush memo.
Here are some of the more explosive passages.

"The committee believes," wrote the AEC's scientists, "there is insufficient information available at this time to give assurance that the PRDS reactor can be operated at this site without public hazard."

The scientists acknowledged, however, that they could not say for sure the reactor would be unsafe. Strauss had claimed in issuing the license that new research would guarantee safe operation by the time the reactor is completed in 1960. But the scientists disputed this.

"It appears doubtful," they wrote, "that sufficient experimental information will be available in time to give assurance of safe operation of this reactor unless the present . . . (research) program of the AEC is amplified and accelerated."

RISK OF EXPLOSION

Even an accelerated program, they added, might not "give sufficient information to permit safe operation of this reactor at the Laguna Beach site on the time schedule presently proposed."

More frightening, the safety experts suggested the reactor might even blow up. They were "not satisfied," they said, "with the evidence presented that no credible supercriticality accident resulting from the meltdown could breach the containers (thus causing a nuclear explosion)."

They agreed that "bold steps," such as licensing the private combine to build a fast breeder reactor, were important. "But," they concluded, "the committee does not feel that the steps to be taken should be so bold as to risk

the health and safety of the public."

Note: Strauss is pushing the Detroit project to demonstrate that private utilities can develop atomic power alone. The combine insists on the risky "fast breeder" design, because it produces plutonium as a by-product. Plu-tonium can be sold at a fat profit to the government for use in nuclear weapons.

Heavy Demand For SIU Housing

CARBONDALE, Ill. — September's arrival marks the climax of the annual hunting season at Southern Illinois University — room hunting, that is.

Armed with addresses supplied by the SIU Housing office, students have been combing the city for weeks to find housing before school begins Sept. 24.

The demand is unusually heavy this fall, reports Mrs. Mabel Pulliam, supervisor of off-campus housing, because Southern's enrollment may exceed 6,400 students, or nearly 1,000 more than last year.

However, the housing picture brightens daily as six new residence halls take shape at the University's Thompson Lake area, eventually housing 720 students. In addition, Woody Hall will accommodate 436 women students, with some even assigned to space in utility rooms.

But even though more students than ever before will be housed on the campus this school year, the overflow into off-campus homes and apartments is flooding the Housing Office with phone calls, letters and visitors.

Single women students are doing a big share of the room hunting, Mrs. Pulliam said. Many are finding suitable accommodations in guest bedrooms and recreation rooms of homes built in Carbondale during the past year.

Married students and faculty members are seeking apartments, which are as scarce as they were last fall. Most of those still available are so far from the campus that a car is required, the housing supervisor said. Rental prices have risen only slightly since last year. Two students sharing a room will pay about $4 to $5 each per week, and this price sometime includes cooking privileges. Apartment rentals are ranging from $50 to $90 per month.

Although room-hunting will decline by mid-September, the SIU Housing Office expects a last-minute surge a few days before the fall term opening.

Iron Curtain 'More Porous', USIA Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Director Theodore Streibert of the U. S. Information Agency said today the Iron Curtain is showing signs of "becoming more porous."

But he warned in his semi-annual report to Congress that the Kremlin still seeks Communist world domination.

Streibert said it is up to the West to effectively counter Communist propaganda if the people of the world are to understand the issues involved.

His report also made these points:

The USIA supplied more than 460 TV programs for telecast by 150 stations in the free world during the report period. This activity was aimed at reaching a television audience abroad estimated at 40 million people.

The Voice of America extended its daily two hour jazz and popular American music program to the entire world. Previously it had been beamed to Europe only. The program has become so popular it gets 1,000 fan letters a month—"Some of them from countries with strong anti-American prejudices."

The agency's international press service printed some 27 million leaflets, pamphlets and posters to help explain America and American policies abroad.

Wives of information officers abroad were praised for their "ingenuity" in representing their nation abroad.

Postmen Experiment With Caddy Carts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Your postman soon may be making his rounds pulling one of those golf caddy carts, if he doesn't already.

The Post Office, which has been using the carts on an experimental basis, announced today they have worked out so well that 6,000 of them are scheduled to go into service soon.

The carts are part of the more than 15,000 new vehicles the department is receiving.

The Blonde Cried

MURDER

Shayne got the whisky bottle and uncorked it. He held it up to Paulson's open mouth and ordered, "Swallow."

Paulson swallowed two gulps. He coughed and then looked up miserably.

"You're Shayne?" His voice was thick but he sounded rational. "Where's Nellie?"

"We'll know after you answer some questions," Shayne moved aside to pick up the .45 automatic. He stood over Paulson with the heavy weapon negligently in his hand. "Hesitate just once," he said pleasantly, "and I'll break this over your head. Now then. When you reached Jacksonville from Detroit, you found your sister gone. Is that right?"

Paulson nodded dumbly. "And you nosed around and discovered she had run out on a confidence game rap that she'd been pulling with some guy who she pretended was her brother. Who was he?"

Again, Paulson nodded. He looked down and his fingers scrambled for the whisky bottle where Shayne had dropped it on the floor. He got it to his mouth with difficulty and drained it. Then he threw it away and put his hands in front of his face and said brokenly, "My fault. All my fault. If I hadn't gone off and left her alone—"

"Shut up and listen to me," said Shayne inexorably. "Who was he?" "Don't know," Paulson's head weaved from side to side. "I don't know. Hired detective to find her. Then I came here—"

"And had a car accident and broke your glasses as you neared Miami," Shayne filled in for him. "You had your sister's room number, and when you reached the Hibiscus you went straight up. And you saw this blonde come running out of her room and you thought it was Nellie afraid to face you because of what she'd done, although you actually couldn't recognize her in that dim light without your glasses."

"Was Nellie," Paulson insisted stubbornly. "I told you—"

"I know what you told me," Shayne cut him off fiercely. "If you'd come clean in the beginning and told me it wasn't her brother who'd been with her in Jacksonville, a lot of things would be different right now. Including one dead girl who might well still be alive."

"Nellie?" Paulson cringed away from Shayne's hard-hitting words. "You mean she's dead? My little sister?"

"Frankly," said Shayne, "I don't know who's dead at this point. But we'll find out."

11:53 P. M.

Chief of Police Will Gentry was deep in conversation with a tall blond man when Shayne unceremoniously shoved the hulking bearded figure of Bert Paulson into his office at headquarters.

Gentry looked up disapprovingly, and then his eyes widened as he saw the scar on Paulson's cheek. He said, "So you found him, Mike? What have my men been doing?"

Shayne said wearily, "I had the jump on them. It finally came to me that he mentioned he and his sister had always stayed at the Tropical Arms when they were in Miami." He jerked his thumb savagely toward Paulson who had subsided into a chair and sat there with a vacant expression on his face. "Meet Bert Paulson, Will."

"You're wrong, Mike," Gentry shook his head and turned to the man seated beside him. "Meet Lieutenant Neils from Jacksonville. Mike Shayne. He brought down a picture of the girl and her brother." He gestured toward a blown-up eight-by-ten photograph lying on his desk. "Looks a lot more like the bird we pulled out of the bay than this guy."

Shayne leaned over his shoulder and studied the picture of a smiling girl and a young man in bathing suits with their arms intertwined about each other. The man whom he had dragged out of the Tropical Arms definitely did not resemble the one in the picture. He couldn't be so sure about the girl. The sun was in her face and she was squinting as she smiled and her image was blurred a trifle.

Shayne said flatly, "I realize that's the guy you're after, Lieutenant, but you're mistaken thinking his name is Paulson. Bert will tell you the whole story," he went on impatiently to Gentry. "Right now, I want to know just one little thing. That girl in the park. What sort of purse did she have, Will?"

"Purse?"

"Handbag. You know."

"Well, it was just a bag, I guess. The kind of bag any girl carries around with her."

"What color?" Shayne demanded savagely. "Red or black?"

Gentry pursed his lips thoughtfully. "I don't know. Come to think of it, I'm not sure I even saw her bag. They had all the stuff out of it looking for identification—"

As he paused uncertainly, Shayne reached past him and snatched up his telephone. He gave Lucy Hamilton's number, and this time she answered before it rang twice.

"Lucy! Think a minute before you answer this. What sort of handbag was the girl carrying when she came to your place?"

"Why—I don't know for sure, Michael. I—"

Employment at Record High During August

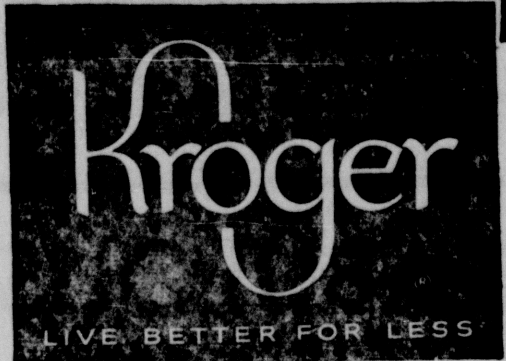

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Census Bureau reported today that a record number of Americans held jobs in August for the 3rd straight month.

The total at work was 66,752,000, a gain of about 100,000 over July—the previous all-time high—and some 300,000 over June's earlier record.

Unemployment was put at 2,195,000, down 638,000 from July and the lowest since October, 1955, when the total was 2,131,000. It was also 42,000 below the unemployment total of August a year ago.

Employment ranks are normally swollen during August, particularly by school-age children holding summer jobs. The decline in unemployment in August was about equally divided between teen-agers and adults and was one of the largest July-August declines in the postwar period.

Thinking It Over

By Robert Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Millions of cups of coffee are consumed every day in these 48 states. The coffee break in industry is widespread. Housewives gather in every community of the nation to enjoy their coffee and the conversation which goes with it.

We find the coffee and the social benefits of the "break" stimulating to the body and to the mind. There is a lot of criticism of the stimulants which we seem to require to keep us moving along through our daily routine. If the critics are correct we are certainly lacking in satisfactions from normal living.

Are we living under tensions which are too much for us to bear? Are we lacking in motivations to strive for our ideals or for the goals along the way? Are we unable to cope with the problems which we must solve? Are we so confused that our nerves need to be quieted artificially?

If we must answer any of the questions with a "yes" or a "possibly" we really need a stimulant in order to keep us on an even keel. However, we ought to find a stimulant much more effective and much more lasting than a cup of coffee.

Coffee or no coffee, we shall find no more stimulation for daily living than that which we get from prayer. When we talk to God in our daily devotions we find better ways of overcoming obstacles. We find encouragement to face difficulties. We discover new motives for doing the routine job.

God really changes our satisfaction.

Fiery Cross Burns on Texarkana, Tex., Campus in Newest Integration Protest

By United Press

A fiery cross burned for half an hour Wednesday night on the campus of the junior college at Texarkana, Tex., in the newest protest against racial integration of Southern schools.

Unknown persons set fire to the six-foot high cross only hours after two Negro coeds were permitted to enroll at the college.

The registration of Jessalyn Yvonne Gray, 18, and Laure Ellis, 17, was accomplished without incident and Dean W. D. Akin said they will be allowed to start classes next Monday with 1,000 white students.

Texarkana police arrived shortly before midnight but the cross had burned itself out. An investigation was ordered.

The cross burning ended a day of uneasy calmness in eight Southern states where Negroes are attempting to enter schools which previously have been segregated.

Mansfield Quiet

All was quiet in another troubled Texas town, Mansfield, where mob action prevented Negroes from attending a school which a federal court had ordered integrated.

Gov. Allen Shivers sent Texas Rangers to Mansfield to preserve order and subsequently ordered the Negroes transferred to a Negro school at Fort Worth.

Shivers earlier had stated he which business is now subjected."

Howlett, speaking briefly, charged that Orville Hodge, former State Auditor now serving a prison term for his part in a scheme that took more than a $1 million for the State of Illinois "is only a symptom, the disease is still in Springfield, of a system of government that makes such a thing possible."

Howlett stated he advocated a law that would require the State Auditor's office to be audited every six months by an outside firm of Certified Public Accountants.

Congressman Kenneth Gray and Rep. Paul Powell stressed the "Public vs. Special interest" theme with Gray stating the Republican administration attempted to block legislation in the last session of congress that would have aided small business and areas of unemployment.

"During my 20 months in congress I was able to accomplish a 42-point program, but with an administration friendly to the problems of the people that could have been 142 points. We had to fight every step of the way to get favorable legislation for the small business man," Gray declared.

Eisenhower Responsible: Powell
"President Eisenhower must be connected with the mistakes of his administration," Rep. Powell declared. "In the past lesser officials have taken all the blame for the mistakes, but it is time the theory that 'The King Can Do No Wrong' was exploded and Eisenhower forced to carry his share of the load."

The candidates came to Harrisburg from Ridgway. Previously during the day they had appeared in Mounds, Vienna, Metropolis, Golconda, Elizabethtown, Shawneetown and at the Gallatin County Fair. Today they started with a morning meeting in Marion and later were to appear at Johnston City, Herrin, Carterville, Carbonale and Oraville.

Steve Mitchell, Saline county Democratic chairman and L. Oard Sitter of Anna, district committeeman, were in charge of the meeting in Harrisburg.

Before the speaking, entertainment was furnished by a five-piece band and a pantomime act by Pamela Colbert of Ledford. Members of the band were Allen Burbank, Bill Brantley, Herb Parks, J. L. Robinson and Charles Dabney.

About Town And Country

the Derby reporter: "Joseph Booten says he thinks he has found her."

"Ivey Armstrong said the pups carried his pants off."

From the Eagle Creek reporter: "H. G. Hall ate dinner Sunday where two pretty young ladies live."

I hadn't heard of Sassyville, but here's one from Sassyville: "Hardie Gross and Jimmy Lloyd are regular callers at William Sizemore's but I think Hardie stands in best since Jim sprained his game leg."

In another issue from Eagle Creek was: "Misses Fanny and Anna Day roosted with Misses Blanch and May Erwin Monday night."

I didn't see any items from Pig-gott, Ark., but I did find some written from Jonesboro, Ark., where apparently a number of Saline county people had gone to work.

Oh, I could keep on going on bits from the correspondence items of 50 years and more ago, but we have to stop this dissertation some place.

See you again. Reason I hadn't seen you in such a long time was because I had been working inside the office the past two weeks.

would transfer any student, white or Negro, whose presence in a school might touch off an act of violence.

Elsewhere in the South communities were tense.

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky moved 200 National Guardsmen and four tanks into the mining town of Sturgis where protests have been made against integration at the high school.

Hostile Crowd Forms

Negroes appeared on the Sturgis school grounds Tuesday but left when they saw a hostile crowd. None returned Wednesday but Chandler sent the troops into Sturgis as a precaution.

As the Kentucky guardsmen moved into Sturgis, Tennessee Adjutant General Joe Henry called National Guardsmen off patrols and removed roadblocks leading into Clinton, where the high school has been integrated over protests of the white population.

Clinton was uneasy as white parents reported they had been warned against sending their children to classes as long as Negro students were enrolled.

FBI Investigating

The FBI was reported investigating the threats at Clinton.

At Oak Ridge, near Clinton, the Atomic Energy Commission agreed to furnish nightsticks, tear gas and other riot equipment to a volunteer force which eventually will replace the guardsmen.

A group of 350 white parents at Matoaka, W. Va., where 27 Negroes were admitted to school on Tuesday, said they would keep their children home until classes are segregated.

$880 Million Paid Out by UMW Welfare Fund

WASHINGTON (U)—John L. Lewis' soft coal welfare and pension fund has paid out more than $880 million dollars in benefits in its first 10 years and has reserves of more than 130 million dollars, fund trustees reported today.

Riding the economic recovery in the soft coal industry, reserves in the United Mine Workers fund rose by 26 million dollars in the fiscal year ended July 1 to a new high level.

The fund is financed by a 40-cent royalty on each ton of coal produced from mines which account for about 80 per cent of total U. S. production.

In its first 10 years, the fund paid out $100-a-month pensions and other benefits to 972,004 miners and their dependents. During the past year it paid out benefits to 206,919 miners and dependents.

State is Granted $622,642 Judgment Against Hodge

CHICAGO (U)—Circuit Court Judge Julius Miner has granted the state a $622,642 judgment against convicted State Auditor Orville E. Hodge.

The judgment was sought Wednesday on a petition of Atty. Gen. Latham Castle as a partial settlement for Hodge's embezzlement of a million dollars in state funds while he was state auditor.

Writs of attachments against assets of principals in the scandal pending settlement were granted by Miner on a prior date.

William C. Wines, assistant attorney general, said the state now has the authority to recover $581,270 as principal and $31,372 as interest on money which Hodge admitted looting from the state treasury.

Boilermakers Promise More Versatile Attack in Big Ten Football Race

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's grid opponents this year can look for a more versatile attack from the Boilermakers, new Coach Jack Mollenkopf said today.

"We'll have Len Dawson throwing," he said, "but we're going to get more running from our halfbacks and we're going to throw to them more."

Mollenkopf, who replaced Stu Holcomb after last season, said that he would make no drastic change from the previous Boilermaker system, but he wanted to give Dawson a better chance to throw and hence will try to spread the defenses with a running game.

To carry out this chore, at the moment, he has settled on Erich Barnes and Ken Mikes at halfback and Mel Dillard at fullback. Of this trio only Barnes saw much action last year, winning a major letter, but the other two were standouts in the brief time they played.

And behind these three Mollenkopf has good reserves, Tom Crowl at fullback, Jim Redinger and Tom Barnett at right half, and Tom Fletcher and John Brideweser at left half.

"We'll maybe be a little faster than last year," he said, "but we'll be able to throw to all the backs better because they're

Vice President Buzzy Bavasi would not say flatly that Alston would be back but he commented that "as far as the organization is concerned we're perfectly satisfied."

THE DOWNSTATE FISHERMAN'S GUIDE:

Bass Begin Responding to Lures

By Pete Brown
(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation)

Along with a slight increase in water temperatures throughout southern Illinois, a few more bass are responding to the blandishments of plug fishermen.

Two and three pound largemouth are hitting more frequently at Crab Orchard Lake with an occasional four or five pounder coming in. Even more encouraging to Cecil Davis, operator of the public dock, is the fact that medium and surface lures are accounting for a large share of the results.

Crappie fishing at Crab Orchard is fair, the average size running from eight to nine inches. The on-again-off-again picture is doubly distressing for the week-end fisherman who sees the surface water literally boiling with fish movement but can't get a tug.

Enough bullheads and channel cats are being caught to make life interesting at Horseshoe Lake where crappie fishing remains fair-to-middlin'. The fish are running to good size, however, with 12 and 14 inch specimens being common.

The bluegill harvest at Lake Murphysboro dropped considerably during the week with few boats checking in with more than 10 fish. Redear and an infrequent channel cat or small bass has made up the rest of the catch.

Pond and reservoir fishing appears to be showing up well although not enough data is available to call it an area-wide trend. Several sizeable bass catches have been reported at McLeansboro's city reservoir as well as farm ponds in the McLeansboro area. Largemouth and channel cat are moving again at the Carbondale City Lake. Best catches here recently have been made by Roy Smith, Carbondale, who has brought in several five or six-pound bass.

A 25-pound flathead was netted recently in the Okaw near Covington by Fred Foster, Okawville. Few flatheads of this size have been reported in the area this year.

George Carson, fishing editor of the "St. Louis Globe-Democrat," returned from a Maine vacation still convinced that "fishing is best in the Midwest." This despite the fact that bass fishing has been "off" in Missouri as well as Southern Illinois.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Last winter a new high school conference—The Southern Illinois—was formed with four members, Eldorado, Johnston City, McLeansboro and Metropolis.

The four schools got together in the spring for a conference track meet at McLeansboro and it was won by Eldorado, but there will be no conference football competition, as previous commitments prevented a full conference schedule of grid contests.

The schools will play for the conference championship in basketball and hope to get their football schedules lined out for the 1957 season.

The conference cage championship will be determined on a point basis. If two member schools meet only once on the basketball court this season, the victory will be worth 10 points. If two schools meet twice, each win will be worth 5 points.

Coaching staffs of the schools—Eldorado, Al Adams head coach, assisted by "Chuck" Leonard and Jim Redden;

Johnston City — Pete Truran, head coach, assisted by Truman Hill; McLeansboro—Gene Haile, football coach, and Leon Richardson, basketball coach; Metropolis — Tom Gehr, football coach, and Claude Shelton, basketball coach.

Ron Williams of Harrisburg, and Bud Williams, Murphysboro, are listed among the freshmen grid candidates at Murray State college.

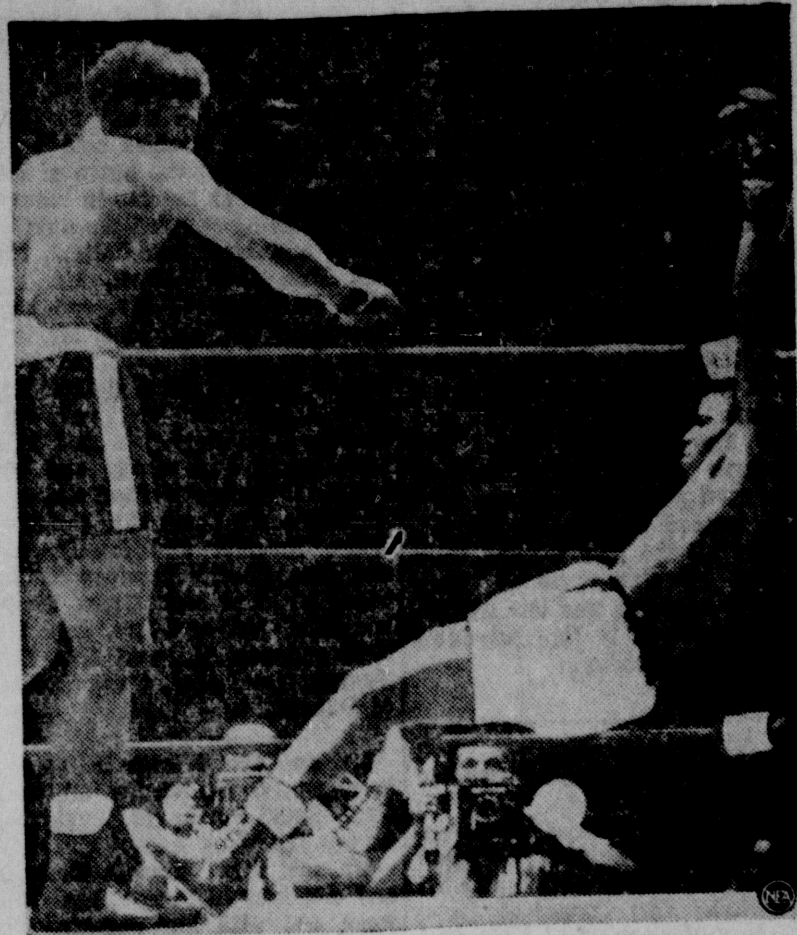

Jack Wright, Jay Waite and Wayman Hefner, Harrisburg Bull Dog regulars last year, are playing football at Fort Leonard Wood. Six-man football is played at the army post.

Anna coach Bill Abernathy is working with a squad of 55 football candidates, including six lettermen.

Returning letter winners are John Chamness, fullback and captain; Ted Spurlock and Bob Smith, guards; Marvin Mathis and Bob Williams, tackles, and Bill Lewis, halfback. Chamness and Spurlock were named to the Southwestern conference all-star squad last year.

Anna opens its season Sept. 14, hosting Eldorado.

Darwin Valtier, coach at Shawneetown high school last year, dropped in The Register office Wednesday to say hello. Valtier spent the summer in law school in Texas and hasn't decided definitely on what he will do this winter.

CORNERED — Rory Calhoun knocked Spider Webb into a corner with a right to the jaw, but the former Olympic boxer bounced back to deal the White Plains, N. Y., middleweight his first defeat in 24 bouts in a 10-round thriller at the Chicago Stadium. The home-grown lad conceded nearly six pounds.

Reds Stop Braves, 12-2, to Move Within 1 1/2 Games of NL Lead; Face Road Test

By United Press

The Cincinnati Redlegs must do it the hard way if they're destined to become the "lucky 13th" team to rise from the second division to a pennant.

The fighting Redlegs moved to within 1 1/2 games of the National League lead when they made it three out of four over the front-running Milwaukee Braves, 12-2, Wednesday but the big test is just ahead. They'll be on the road for their next 13 games—and it's on the road that the experts say they can't win.

So far, the figures support the experts. The Redlegs have a 32-29 mark on the road and they'll have to do a lot better than that to win. But they're fresh from those three straight victories over the Braves and confident they'll come out on top in the three-team scramble.

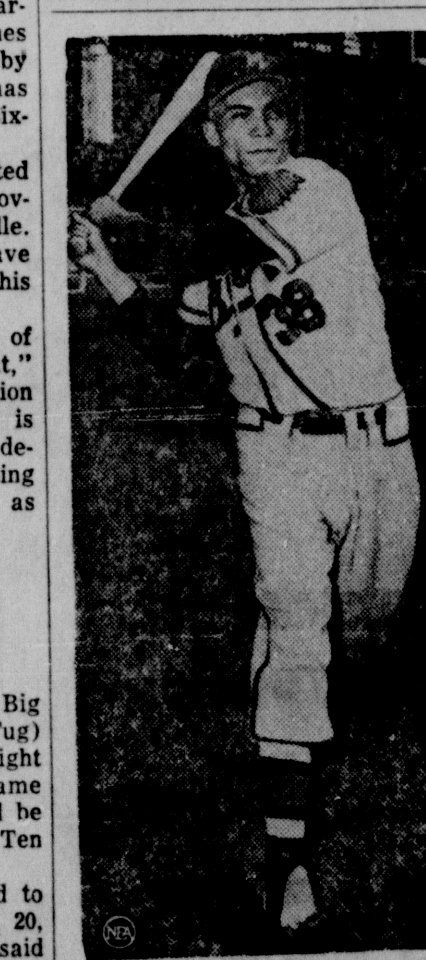

"It's a three-team race and we're up there to stay," said Manager Birdie Tebbetts, sounding the keynote. "They've been counting us out for the last four months but we're not dead yet."

Kayo Warren Spahn
The Redlegs kayoed Warren Spahn with five runs in the second inning Wednesday and went on to bang out 15 hits as they ruined the veteran southpaw's bid for his 200th win. Alex Grammas knocked in four runs with three hits. Frank Robinson hit a two-run triple and Johnny Temple and Roy McMillan had two hits each in the bombardment. Hershel Freeman, who yielded one hit in a 4-1-3 innings of relief beat the Braves for the second straight day and raised his season's record to 13-4.

Sal Maglie, aided by Don Bessent in the ninth, won his ninth decision as the Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, and stayed only a half game behind the Redlegs. Duke Snider walloped his 38th homer and Gil Hodges his 26th to lead the Dodger attack.

Pinch-hitter Hank Thompson singled home Red Schoendienst in the 10th to give the New York Giants a 5-4 win over the Philadelphia Phillies. Jackie Brandt knocked in three runs with a double and a single for the Giants, whose $65,000 bonus pitcher, Mike McCormick, lasted less than two innings in his first starting assignment.

Wehmeier Bests Rush
Herman Wehmeier outdueled Bob Rush as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs, 2-1, on Al Dark's 11th-inning single in the other NL game. Walt Moryn homered to tie the score for the Cubs

Wrigley Indicates Manager Changes For Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the stumbling Chicago Cubs, indicated today there may be some managerial changes in the offing for the club, but not before the end of this season.

Wrigley refused to lay the blame for the Cubs' 10th straight second division season on any one individual, but remarked he was "critical of the picture in its entirety."

The heir to a chewing gum fortune pointed to dissension in the Cubs' front office involving Wid Matthews, director of player personnel and Clarence Rowland, executive vice president. But he said he had no immediate plans to replace them or Manager Stan Hack.

"Matthews, Rowland and Hack have worked hard at their jobs and have tried their best," Wrigley said.

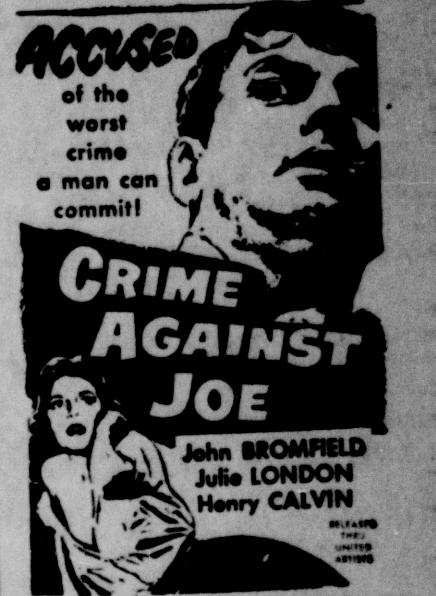

The Cubs' boss also denied reports that Leo Durocher has been offered a rich contract to take over the reins of the National League's cellar dwellers.

Atop the dome of the national Capitol is the Statue of Freedom, made entirely of bronze and weighing almost 15,000 pounds.

Stevenson Says Congress GOP Prevents Eisenhower Making Good on Pledges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today that a Republican wrecking crew in Congress will prevent President Eisenhower from making good his campaign pledges.

The Democratic presidential candidate said there were some "forward-looking" parts of the speech Mr. Eisenhower gave at the GOP National Convention here.

But he said in a speech prepared for delivery to the International Association of Machinists that "the record shows" that the same Republican congressmen who cheered the President's speech "voted against those same things in Congress."

"The Republican leaders are willing to let President Eisenhower go ahead and deliver speeches," he said, "but when they get down to something important, say like making appointments to the National Labor Relations Board, they take no chances."

Adlai Cites Record

Stevenson said the Republicans issue "election-year platitudes," while the Democrats "mean what we say—and the record proves it."

Stevenson said that the Democrats in the 84th Congress drafted legislation to allow disabled persons to get their social security benefits earlier. He said Mr. Eisenhower had pledged himself to such legislation, but when the Democrats "took him at his word," he "threw the whole weight and power" of the administration behind an effort to defeat them.

The Democratic standard bearer was booed several times during his speech by the mixed Democrat-Republican audience.

At one point in his speech when he reminded the delegation that the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress harassed President Eisenhower so much that he even considered bolting his party. This brought such a chorus of boos, cheers, whistling, catcalls and clapping that he was halted completely.

Stevenson said that 85 per cent of the Democratic senators voted "for the interests of the disabled workers," while 86 per cent of the Republicans voted against those interests.

After the speech, Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, were scheduled to leave by plane for Chicago,

Confused Fireman Blamed for Wreck

SPRINGER, N. M. (AP)—Santa Fe Railroad officials said Wednesday night that a confused fireman threw a switch at the wrong time, sending the crack "Chief" smashing into a mail and express train and killing 20 persons.

T. J. Anderson, Santa Fe's assistant general manager, said the fireman became confused and threw the switch too soon. The passenger train, which should have sped past the waiting mail train, instead roared onto the siding and hit the side tracked train head-on. Twelve persons were taken to hospitals and one was injured seriously in the pre-dawn smashup Wednesday.

completing a 3,947-mile, two-day trip to the West Coast.

On his return to Chicago, Stevenson will rest a day and then begin an eastern swing with stops at Springfield, Ill.; Columbus, Ohio, and New York City on Saturday. The official kickoff of his campaign will be a televised speech from Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 13.

He will make a speech at Newton, Iowa, Sept. 22 and then may return to the West Coast for further campaigning here.

Sentenced for Abducting Son of Carnival Worker

ROBINSON, Ill. (AP)—A 53-year-old Flat Rock man who abducted the 3-year-old son of a carnival worker was sentenced to two years in prison Wednesday.

Circuit Judge Caswell Crebs imposed sentence at Robinson on Earl Allison, a construction worker, after Allison had pleaded guilty to the charge and waived action of the grand jury.

Authorities said it was the first instance of sentencing in Crawford County under a recent Illinois law which permits a defendant to waive grand jury action.

State's Atty. Richard Eagleton said Allison abducted the boy, identified as "Butch" Meeker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Meeker, Terre Haute, Ind., at the close of a Labor Day celebration in Leaverton Park about two miles south of Palestine.

The father and other carnival employees, attracted by the boy's cries as the car was leaving, gave chase and caught Allison in Palestine at 2 a. m. Tuesday. He was held until authorities arrived. Authorities said the boy told them that Allison had "waved a dollar bill in front of my eyes" to get him in the car. They said the boy was not harmed.

Eagleton says Allison admitted having been drinking and quoted him as saying "I didn't mean to harm the boy."

Eden Recalls Parliament for Action on Suez

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden today recalled Parliament from its summer recess to an emergency session next Wednesday in a clear indication Britain wants a settlement of the Suez Canal dispute within the week.

The only major issue before the special session of Parliament would be the use of the big Anglo-French expeditionary force now building up in the eastern Mediterranean, if there is no settlement.

Eden and his cabinet—including the army, navy and air ministers—made the decision to recall Parliament from its 2½-month summer vacation during an extraordinary meeting today.

The new first lord of the admiralty, Lord Hailsham, attended the cabinet session. His presence indicated a possible tough policy. Before he took office last Sunday he had written "that the canal users 'have the means to impose their will on Egyptian President

Slight Increase In State Payroll

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State Auditor Lloyd Morey today reported the state payroll for May increased by 143 persons and $61,422 over the previous month.

The payroll was up 3,345 persons from May, 1955, and totaled $14,886,195, paid to 50,624 persons. Payroll costs had increased about 10 per cent over the same month last year.

Morey said the largest single increase during the month was in the Public Works Department, where 131 persons were hired. The Conservation Department added 60 employees during the month, the Department of Labor 46.

Gamal Abdel Nasser and it must be done."

There was no longer any serious doubt that Britain was girding for military action in the Suez dispute if Nasser finally rejects the results of the London conference on Suez.

The recall of Parliament followed demands from the opposition Labor Party that the legislators be consulted before force is used.
